

The Risk Coalition's Risk Committee Chairs Forum (RCCF)

Purpose

The RCCF is a professional forum for risk committee chairs or equivalent to:

- discuss and learn from each other and from outside experts;
- exchange views and share experiences; and
- network with other highly experienced 'risk-focused' INEDs.

The RCCF may also provide responses to key risk/governance related public consultations where appropriate.

Membership and fees

RCCF membership is intended to be limited to existing or newly appointed risk committee chairs or equivalent (e.g. audit committee chairs with risk responsibility) although membership may also be extended to those that are well-positioned to make a valuable contribution to the Forum.

There is no membership fee. Roundtable participants may be asked to contribute towards the cost of physical meetings where necessary.

Chair

The RCCF will be Chaired by the Risk Coalition until such time as a Co-Chair is selected by the members.

Approach

The RCCF aims to hold virtual or in person roundtable events on a quarterly basis. Public access panel discussion webinars will be held in the intervening periods.

Roundtable discussions under the Chatham House rule will provide members with an opportunity to share leading practices and insights. The Forum will also hear from industry experts and thought leaders.

A forward agenda of topics for discussion will be proposed by the Chair semi-annually with members being encouraged to make their own suggestions by emailing chris.burt@riskcoalition.org.uk.

The RCCF may also provide a mechanism for informing and seeking to influence stakeholders such as government, regulators, credit rating agencies and others.

Topic specific seminars and workshops

Subject to demand and an appropriate mechanism to cover associated costs, the RCCF may also offer members the opportunity to engage in topic specific seminars and half day workshops led by industry experts.

Target industries and sectors

The RCCF is industry and sector agnostic but realistically is likely to be weighted towards financial services members, at least initially. In time, there may be an opportunity to hold industry/sector specific discussions.

Outcomes

RCCF member professional development supported by thought leadership white papers and research, including best practices and blogs.
